LONDON, Aug. 15.—"C'est fini" (it is finished.) These words to the correspondent by Foreign Minister Stre-

Editorial Comment on Coolidge Speech Reflects

Nation-wide Indorsement of Candidate

President Coolidge's speech formally accepting the nomination of the Republican party convention at Cleveland has the whole-hearted approval of the press of the country, as evidenced from the following editorial comment, gathered by The Times by wire:

Boston Herald: A fine speech, and a speech that nobody but

Calvin Coolidge could have written. It is firm, clear and inspiring.

Hartford Courant: It is a splendid, straightforward statement by a man who has proved himself worthy of the great honor that has come to him; that justifies the tremendous confidence the people have in him; that shows he is the man to be re-elected, as he will be next November.

Washington (Det.) News: The

President desires a government of common sense, peace abroad, honesty and economy at home. This reflects the sentiments of the great masses of Americans.

Albany Knickerbocker Press: A careful analysis will show that the speech is a masterpiece of statesmanship and high purpose. It is a reflection of all that Calvin Coolidge has thought and achieved since he entered public life.

Chicago Tribune: In this closing paragraph Mr. Coolidge sums up the faith that is in him as political leader and as responsible ad-

FLOATING LIQUOR PALACE

ANCHORED OFF NEW YORK

Liner Outside Twelve Mile Limit

is Playground of Rich and Fast;

Flies British Flag

BY SANFORD JARRELL

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Fifteen miles off Fire Island, beyond the pale of the law, is anchored a floating bar and cabaret that is the playground of the rich and fast. It is a large boat of 17,000 tons. On board are silverware and other fittings marked with the name of the Friedrich der Grosse, a former German liner.

A negro jazz orchestra furnishes the music with which millionaires, flappers and chorus girls out of work daily while on a walled floor with the tang of the salt sea air dancing through their lungs. A heavily manned bar serves both men and women. An excellent cuisine lends tone. Drinks of every conceivable character may be obtained at prices that divide the fat wallets of the customers.

The ship flies the British ensign. The musicians are of the Alabama variety and play college airs. Yachtmen go out every day and anchor near the ship which caters to their whims and fancies.

NAME CANCELED

Many similar schemes have been projected and rumors that such ships are in the rum run have whetted the insatiable thirst of Americans along the Atlantic seaboard. This boat is neither rum nor is it fiction. The writer of this article spent Thursday night aboard the liner, which has littered the bottom of the sea with the wreckage of many a ship.

It took me two days to find the boat, and I had the unsavory experience of drifting helplessly in an open boat for two hours, ten miles from the Plymouth crossroads store, will house all but the President and his family. They will sail on Monday. The writer expect "Cal" to put on his old clothes, mend the front porch and any of the usual political in-surrender to the inevitable.

This is intended as a real vacation for the President, who is worn by the heat of a Washington summer and the strain of work he has carried on day after day for more than a year. His

HOOVER EXTOLS
COOLIDGE STANDSees Program as Sane and Constructive PledgeAll Sections of Party Can Unite on PrinciplesSecretary Says President Has Ability for Task

(By Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—President Coolidge, according to a sane, constructive program, breathing a fine sense of obligation in public service upon which all sections of the Republican party can unite and to which all thinking people can rally.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, thus commented upon the speech of President Coolidge in accepting the Republican nomination. Mr. Hoover has just returned to this city from Los Angeles, where he made the principal address at the opening of the Southern California Republican Night and Dawes Wednesday night.

"Economy and integrity in government; reduction and reform in taxes; policies which will maintain stability in commerce, industry and employment; equality between agriculture and industry; encouragement to co-operative marketing; protective tariff; regulation of public utilities; and opposition to government monopoly; world court; co-operation for the elimination of war; peace conference for the reduction of armaments; Federal construction of control works and reclamation; improvement of the great waterways; reconstruction of the railway rate structure; constitutional amendment for control of child labor; independence of the courts; limitation of immigration; maintenance of equality of opportunity to all; promotion of education; devotion to the moral and spiritual progress of the nation."

"These are real steps of progress, they prove the Republican party the constructive party of the nation, and President Coolidge has established confidence in his resolution and ability to carry them through."

Secretary Hoover has been making a special study of reclamation, co-operative marketing and agriculture needs in California during the last few weeks and of these subjects treated in the acceptance speech, he says:

"Of more detailed interest to the Pacific Coast is the statement that Japanese exclusion is a closed incident; tariff on agricultural products maintained; food control and reclamation to be extended and co-operative marketing for farm products to be supported."

PRESS INDORSES

Mr. Coolidge's conduct of his affairs—his speech plain and forthright as any citizen would expect, and weighed with a mass of pertinent facts which, though they are of the commonplace things of life, are the substance of true statesmanship and tangible evidence of good government.

Mr. Coolidge relies on the fact, not on the phrase, in his straight appeal to the common sense of the American people, and the picture he directs their gaze upon is indeed one of the most impressive and remarkable of our history. It is not a picture of cloudy aspiration in the common sense of the word, but a picture of the productive forces of a great people and such an accomplishment in the benevolent and highly practical conduct of public affairs as justify higher praise than Mr. Coolidge has ever been given.

Mr. Coolidge is willing to let the facts speak for him, for his government, and for his party, and his instinct is true, for as he says, "The people are the best judges of the truth and reality. They want to be told the truth. They want to be trusted."

Kansas City Star: The passage in which President Coolidge says he wants the people of America to work for the government, and more for themselves, The Star takes to be the very heart and kernel of the Coolidge message to the American people. It shows the earnestness and the common sense that shine through all his words. He conceives it his duty to bring the largest possible freedom to the nation, and for men to develop their own initiative in making their way in the world; freedom to retain the largest possible share of the rewards of their labor. His deeds speak up his words. He has seen the courage with which he vetoed expenditures in order to reduce the burden on the people in the face of warnings that the veto might cost him his political life. He has taken his speech, his confession of faith, a chart of future action.

People have confidence in the man and in his purpose because he has proved himself in the heat of combat under fire.

Essentially it is Calvin Coolidge sitting down talking over the nation's biggest business problems with the nation and making the issue common sense.

Synapse Post-Standard: Mr. Davis in his speech of acceptance found the weak places in the public record, the corruption of Fall and the unfitness of Daugherty and the failure of the President to command the support of Congress for important recommendations he made. The answer is simple and we believe conclusive. President Coolidge has cleaner hands than any man in the country. He has taken the energetic prosecution of those who have abused their trust.

Philadelphia Enquirer: One would have great difficulty in attempting to recall in address to the people a Presidential nomination that so vividly portrayed the character of the candidate and his sincere aspirations for the welfare of the whole nation.

It has been predicted of Coolidge that he would be the man to lead the nation into the future. He is. We may take all the printed resolutions of all the conventions into the rubbish heap and forget them. The man who has formulated principles are enough. They fulfill every reasonable desire. They should be convincing to every person who is open to conviction. The speech he made in accepting the nomination of thought, complete freedom from evasion and whole-souled devotion to public service.

Indianapolis Star: The President's adherence to the Constitution and all its amendments is for equal opportunity and treatment for all citizens and for the enforcement of all laws. The law is law. The people want a government of common sense, and that is exactly what he proposed to give them, so far as it is within his power.

SPEECH DELIGHTS LEADERS IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Coolidge's appeal to common sense in his acceptance address last night made a hit with Republican leaders on the Senate floor. Gov. E. F. Branch of Indiana was one of those who greeted the President on his arrival.

"The President's address was just what I expected from him," said Gov. Branch. "It was a great address, a masterpiece of statesmanship and a masterpiece of simplicity and principles which will bring success in November. It is a masterpiece of statesmanship and a masterpiece of simplicity and principles which will bring success in November. It is a masterpiece of statesmanship and a masterpiece of simplicity and principles which will bring success in November."

WILLIS PLEASED
"President Coolidge in his address of acceptance showed again his marked ability to express clearly Republican principles and policies in language people understand," said Senator Foss. He added that there is no question about the majority for the President in Ohio.

"I was more than pleased with the character of the President's address of acceptance," said Senator Willis. "It cannot fail to meet national approval. He left nothing unsaid and nothing that required answering unanswered. He met every issue squarely and fearlessly. He specified a program he was ready with a solution. His appeal to common sense just hit on the most vital need of the nation today."

Senator Hall, Republican, Delaware, said he looks for East and West, North and South to issue a chorus of approval to the President's address.

"Every word he uttered breathed his own faith in the principles and practices of government he has espoused," said Senator Ball. "It was more than expression of Republican principles and platform. In it the President set forth his personal faith and his administrative creed."

Senator Ernst, Republican, Kentucky, described the address as "magnificent."

"It was typical of Coolidge in his fearlessness, his sincerity and his hatred of sham and make-believe whether in the realm of political discussion or vital economic problems," said Senator Ernst.

Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, said that it is what the country thinks that matters and, I feel sure, the enormous number of people who were present in the hall with the President's high statesmanship and his grasp of public problems and his ability to administer the government to the interest of the American people."

Representative Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, Speaker of the House of Representatives, said he had expected to listen to a great address and was not disappointed.

"It was a splendid discussion of the nation's problems and the manner in which they should be met," said Mr. Gillett.

seen them shake their heads to show they disapproved of the opinions of certain witnesses. And I have seen Loeb sometimes throw his arms around his brother during recess periods.

The idea of this testimony, he made it clear, was to show that the 19-year-old boys, fighting to save their necks, acted exactly like 19-year-old boys would act in trying to save their necks.

The doctor then was asked to give his opinion of Loeb as based on his observations and on what he had heard related from the witness stand. The question caused hot objections from Democrats and Republicans. State's Attorney Crowe argued he had a right to ask that question.

Dr. Darrow said the question was asked in the Harvey Church case," said the judge. "I allowed it. Church was sentenced to be hanged. I was sustained on appeal to give them, so far as it is within his power."

"But," said Darrow, "how do we know what part of the evidence he has remembered?"

"But," said Darrow, "how do we know what part of the evidence he has remembered?"

The judge decided to exclude the question. Then Darrow allowed it to be asked.

The doctor answered his opinion was that Loeb was not a mentally diseased man.

He answered the same question to Loeb in the same manner.

Fantasy life is a normal experience. Dr. Singer said, representing an inanimate emotion. Life is an individual. "It represents a dream of instinctive longings as a child, a longing for a satisfying of appetites, longings and desires otherwise incapable of fulfillment."

Endocrinology, "the new chemistry of character," summoned by the defense in its effort to save the lives of Loeb and Leopold. Dr. Woodruff described as comparable to darkest Africa before the explorer Stanley ever heard in the Parliament House.

"There are many definite facts known, but they are scattered, disjointed and uncorrelated," he said. "This field of endocrinology has been exploited by romantic writers, charlatans and others which are not to be classified as scientific."

Findings in the report made by Dr. Carl Bowman and Dr. H. S. Hulbert, which indicated disorders of functions of the endocrine glands, were "compatible with entire normality" and "lacking anything to indicate a disease of the endocrine glands."

The hearing heard the argument of the defense that the boys left one alienist's "ace," Dr. William C. Krohn of Chicago. No more lay witnesses will be called. Attorneys said at adjournment that arguments should be reached by Wednesday and require possibly four days.

tical communiqué, except that they used the words "positive result."

What really happened, it is understood, is that the Germans accepted the French terms with very slight tactical modifications which were put on paper tonight and will be agreed on formally tomorrow morning. After this agreement is signed there will follow a meeting of the big fourteen, a plenary session of the Allies, and a full session of all the nations, at which the Dawes protocol will be signed.

There some doubt late tonight whether, for technical reasons, the protocols can be signed before Sunday or Monday. As both Chancellor Brüning and Mr. MacDonald are staunch churchmen and are adverse to signing treaties on Sunday, the signing may not take place until Monday. Mr. Herriot tonight explained that he himself is able to get away Sunday morning, but the Britishers are not so sure.

The Germans, in their communication to the French press, tonight explained that they have been given full freedom for discussing the terms, but they do not employ the word "veto," they clearly convey the understanding that they are signing because they must.

Mr. Herriot is said to have consented to accept a judicial commission to draft an agreement for the evacuation of the Ruhr in such a way that it will not be a condition of the occupation. Mr. Herriot is also said to have agreed to a relaxation of the Allied military control of Germany.

ACCEPTANCE BY REICHSTAG INDICATED

(By Cable and Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Aug. 15.—President Ebert telegraphed Chancellor Brüning, asking him to accept the Allied proposal for a one-year period for the withdrawal of troops from the Ruhr.

The action followed a joint Cabinet session in the presence of all the members of the Reichstag. The substance of the telegram, which is being held secret, but the contents of which, according to one of the conferees, is "try to bargain for a month or two off, but accept what is offered."

Even Herriot told President Ebert that if Herriot refuses to budge on the evacuation of the Ruhr, the Nationalists will cease to support the government and place no undue obstacles in the Reichstag.

Dr. Jarres admitted that the solid international front opposing the German delegates in London, made further resistance by them futile, unless Germany was prepared to accept the responsibility for wrecking the conference and thereby virtually scrapping the Dawes plan.

The German delegates, Dr. Jarres said, would now strive to rescue as much out of the situation as they could.

Political circles here are inclined to find an element of hope or of promise in the situation, assuming that since Frank B. Kellogg, the American Ambassador, and the American bankers have thrown their decisive support to Mr. Herriot, American political and financial interests obviously will exert a watchful, if not a protecting, influence on German interests in the Ruhr.

return to the finishing school in the fall.

DRINKS EXPENSIVE

The food was quite reasonable and very good. There were a dozen uniformed waiters who looked after the wants of the guests in a very efficient manner. The drinks, on the other hand, were sold at exorbitant prices, much higher than the price lists in New York cafes.

Some of the prices were: Scotch highball, $1; dry gin rick, $1.50; silver fizz, $1.60; Holland gin drinks, $2; slot gin buck, $2; champagne, $1.5 a quart; sparkling Burgundy, $2 a quart; two highball, $2; mint julep, $2.50.

The gin, we were assured, was honest-to-goodness Gordon and not synthetic gin. The Scotch, however, was no better or no worse than the which is marketed in New York every day by enterprising bootleggers.

Scotch highballs sell for 50 cents each along the south shore of Long Island but by drinking it fifteen miles out one must pay double that amount.

The dancing was highly respectable at that early hour. Although the dancing was not as fast and furious as the effort was not such as to rock the boat until after midnight. On deck there were comfortable canvas chairs, where one could sip drinks in tall thin glasses, listen to the click of the ice and the pounding of the waves, gaze upon the rays of the moon playing on the water or make love marvellously.

MOCKS AT LAW

Then there was the bar. Women as well as men stood up there ordering various drinks and dishing out to each other bright utterances on the literature, scandal and sensational murders of the day. The bar was equipped with a modern cash register, which was overworked if ever a cash register was.

The floating cabaret on the other hand, mocks at the law of the realm and has built up a considerable patronage. The officers and seamen, however, are loathe to discuss the registry of the vessel, or its past. No doubt when it left its port in England the name of the boat was plainly lettered on the bow and stern. Such lettering cannot be observed today.

Following is the approximate cost per individual who spends a normal evening aboard the floating cabaret: Boat fare, round trip, $70; first admission charge, $1; four mint juleps, $10; four slot gin drinks, $12; two bottles champagne, $30; tips, $10; dinner, $15; promenade deck stateroom, $15; total $115.

GLOOMY COURTHSHIP

A young Scotchman fell in love with a girl, but could not screw up courage to ask her to be his wife. One day a brilliant idea occurred to him. He took her to the local church yard and pausing before a large tombstone, said:

"Jean, my grandfather is buried here, my father is buried here, and I am told he here. What you like to be here?"

They were married. (Detroit Free Press.)

The diagram illustrates the flight of the two men whom Mrs. Martin yesterday told the authorities she heard running from the room where Mrs. Teresa Mors was slain.

At 1:30 a.m. McCoy called three times at a drug store on Seventh and Hoover streets. On each visit he spoke to V. S. Barackman, the proprietor.

Check of the records at the garage where the car in which McCoy drove was kept showed that the car was taken out by McCoy at 11:20 p.m. Tuesday. Some time after midnight the car was placed by the detectives at Albert B. Mors's residence at 1725 Iris Circle, Hollywood.

At 1:30 a.m. Wednesday the machine was again in front of the Nottingham Apartments at 2219 Leeward avenue. Some time after 1 o'clock the same morning McCoy called at the residence of Mrs. Jennie Thomas, his sister, at 1846 1-2 Abbott place, in the north-east part of the city.

At 1:45 a.m. McCoy called at the garage at 2227 1-2 Leeward, directly facing that portion of the Nottingham Apartments in which the death apartment was located, and took and Mrs. Fredman, occupants of apartment 104 in the Nottingham. All heard screams and a shot, according to their stories to the police, and all set the hour at approximately midnight.

B. S. Barackman, manager of the Wilshire Pharmacy at Seventh and Hoover, informed the police that McCoy was in his place of business on three different occasions between 8 and 9 o'clock on the night of the tragedy. McCoy, Barackman asserts, was obviously intoxicated. A meeting with a newspaperman, whom McCoy asserted had given him "too much publicity," was the object of McCoy's visit to the accused man told Barackman.

You're pretty drunk, kid. Don't get into trouble, Barackman says he admonished McCoy. "I'm in trouble already," McCoy replied.

The police also established during the day that the ashtray found in the Cadillac car belonging to Mrs. Mors and used by McCoy, had been in the car for a period of two weeks prior to the tragedy. This was cleared by T. I. Hollingsworth, manager of the Leeward Garage, where the car was kept.

Other developments of the day were the seizure under orders of the District Attorney's office of the pillowcase, pillow, and blanket spread in the apartment occupied by McCoy and Mrs. Mors, and the survey of the apartment under direction of the County Surveyor's office.

Capt. Hunter, head of the District Attorney's homicide squad, and Detective Lieutenants Jarvis and Kling, of police headquarters, completely reconstructed the tragedy and checked on the evidence in the hands of the authorities during the day.

Victims yesterday congratulated Mr. Schapp on his remarkable escape from death when they learned that the extremely heavy-caliber bullet went through his body cleanly a few inches below his heart.

McCoy was determined that no human was to stand between him and Mrs. Mors's fortune, said Mr. Schapp yesterday, telling for the first time of an attack McCoy is asserted to have made upon Mrs. Schapp last winter.

"He knew that my wife and I opposed his friendship with Teresa," said Mr. Schapp. "One night in February he waylaid my wife outside her home at midnight."

"He approached her and accused her of interfering in his business," he cursed her, using every vile name that he could lay his very capable tongue to. He warned her, with most vulgar phrases, that he would take her into the streets and shoot her.

"She came trembling into the house," he said. "What could we do? We could not fight this creature with his own weapons, and an appeal to the police would have resulted only in unfortunate notoriety."

"McCoy was a fortune-hunter. When he met Teresa he saw a beautiful, sweet woman, wealthy, lonely, and with a husband, buried in business, away in the East. He was after her money, but she was so wonderful that I believe even that heartless creature loved her toward the end."

"Newspaper dispatches from New York, stating that she came to this country only seventeen years ago, are inexact. She was an infant when she came, and was truly American. She went to school in New York City and graduated from high school. When she met Mr. Mors he was in the metal business."

Resented Remonstrances on Choice of Friends

City Prosecutor Tells of Plea Made by Husband

"I have my life to live and I am going to live it as I see fit. I am old enough to choose my own friends."

This was the defiant reply at her husband, Albert A. Mors, and City Prosecutor Friedlander, by Mrs. Teresa Mors just a month to the day when her body was found on the floor of the Nottingham Apartments.

Mrs. Mors had been summoned to the prosecutor's office following complaint by her husband of her relations with "Kid" McCoy.

"Mors was very emotional and high strung when he visited me," Mr. Friedlander said yesterday. "He told me of the relations between Selby and Mrs. Mors and indicated that they were very intimate."

"As he progressed through the story of his married life his eyes filled with tears; several times he wept bitterly," Mr. Friedlander said.

"He didn't want any trouble with McCoy," he said. And he didn't want any trouble with his wife.

"I sent for her. She came in and was very angry at what she termed my interference. I told her that in the interest of public peace it would be better for her to break with McCoy."

"I have my life to live and I am going to live it as I see fit," she told me. "I am going to choose my own friends."

"She was very resentful about the whole matter. We didn't file a complaint just then."

"But when Oscar Matterson, owner of the apartments on Carondelet avenue, where the Kid had been stopping, under the name of Nathan Stone, came to us and complained that McCoy had moved his trunk from the apartment without paying the rent, we did issue a complaint for McCoy's arrest. This was filed in Department No. 1 on July 14."

It charged Kid McCoy, alias Norman Selby, with defrauding an innkeeper. Whether the warrant which was issued on the filing of the complaint was ever served I do not know.

"And none of the three ever returned to this office."

MRS. MORS FUNERAL TO BE IN EAST

Family Verifies Reports of New York Burial But Later Denies Them

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH) NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—From apparently reliable sources it was learned today that the funeral of Mrs. Teresa Mors will be conducted at Arverne, L. I., where Mrs. Mors's mother, who lives at Claremont avenue, the Weinsteins, came here from Czechoslovakia when Mrs. Mors was a little girl.

Albert Mors was remembered today by members of the police reserves, which he joined about the time of the war and served as major.

Arrangements for the disposition of the body of Mrs. Mors have not been made but it is understood that Mors will permit the mother in New York to bury her daughter there.

When her parents and friends in New York heard of this McCoy scandal several months ago, they wrote her begging her to break with him. She would not answer their letters. Mrs. Schapp and I were then in New York, and her people appealed to us to write to her, knowing that we were her best friends.

"I did so, and in reply got a twelve-page letter. Our trip to Los Angeles was primarily to save her. Tuesday afternoon I had a long talk with her."

"She told me that she would not."

"Then break with him at once," I urged her.

"I'm afraid to, Sam," she told me. "He would kill me. He has threatened to do so."

"She was a brave woman. I believe he killed her when she told him that she was through with him."

Cotton Prices Collapse With Crop Estimate

(BY A. P. MOUNT WIRE) NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Cotton prices collapsed this afternoon after publication of the crop estimate of 13,800,000 bales by an internationally known spot and commission house, or approximately 1,000,000 bales more than the government report as of August 1.

October sold off to 36.32, or 83 points below yesterday's close and the entire market was finally easy at a net loss of 77.32 points.

FIRST THOUGHT MCCOY KILLED MAN

Sister Says His Talk Was Incoherent

Mrs. Jennie Thomas

"He must have been under some influence when he came to me. His thought was indistinct. At first I got the impression that he had killed a man. Then I learned who it was. He dashed away, saying that he would kill himself. It was terrible."

Mrs. Thomas wished to correct the impression that she had wept while before the grand jury. "My face might have been pale, but I was not crying," she said.

Mrs. Thomas is at her home, 4926 Lockhaven street, Eagle Rock, the address at 5346 1/2 Abbott Place being the home of friends.

MCCOY IN FEAR OF ASSASSINS

Warns Guards to Be on Alert; Insists on Restaurant Seat Commanding View of Entire Place

Fear that his enemies are planning to "get" him caused "Kid" McCoy yesterday to ask detectives to be on the alert when he is in their custody outside the City Jail.

Dropping the attitude of smiling indifference that he assumed shortly after his arrest, the "Kid" appeared extremely nervous. He insisted on sitting at a table where he could see the entire interior of a restaurant to which he was taken for dinner, and in a barber shop, refused to let the barber cover his eyes with a towel.

Captain of Detectives Cline scoffed at the idea that any one might make an attempt to harm McCoy and was inclined to put a differing interpretation on the change in demeanor. He issued an order that the "Kid" is to be taken from the jail in the future only when his presence outside is necessary in the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Mors. The order is the kind always given by the police when they feel that the greatest effort to be made is to keep McCoy from attempting to escape if he is taken outside the jail.

The "Kid's" actions in the restaurant were the police reserves, which he joined about the time of the war and served as major.

Arrangements for the disposition of the body of Mrs. Mors have not been made but it is understood that Mors will permit the mother in New York to bury her daughter there.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, fighting desperately for the National League leadership, won their third straight victory from the New York Giants, 6 to 4, today and narrowed to four games the margin separating the two teams. New York scored four runs in the third inning, but Pittsburgh came back in its half with five runs, Cuyler accounting for three of them by hitting a home run with two runners on base. Nehf was taken from the box in that inning. Groh headed the Giants' batting order, being moved from seventh position. Score:

Montebello Tackles Ficketts in Other Feature of Semipro Schedule Tomorrow

All kinds of excitement is on tap for the baseball fan who haunts the various city and lots today and tomorrow, according to a schedule received here from Secretary Harry Nelson. The play-off series for championships begin at Irvine and Montebello when Sam Cox's Pasadena Eagles meet Irvine and Montebello takes on Ficketts tomorrow.

Something of the same sort is all ready for today also in the shape of a game between Williams Cubs and the L. A. County Farm on the Farmers' grounds. The Board of Public Service and the report and findings of the engineers appointed by the commission of Engineer Mulholland of the state and of the Chamber of Commerce, showed that the total available water supplies of the Owens River and the Colorado River confirmed the reports of the engineers. The report, by inference, showed that the Colorado River for its future water supply is a second Owens River. The report also showed that the project were built and all available water would be used.

The water acquired from the San River Valley and the Basin, the report of the board of engineers showed, would obtain a water supply until early 1983, based on the present growth of the area and the adjacent metropolitan areas.

An estimated cost of the second San River aqueduct, including engineering to the city through the State of Colorado Basin, has not yet been started, will be between $100 and $200,000,000, or more than the present aqueduct, which cost $120,000,000.

The Board of Public Service Commissioners yesterday reported the report and findings of facts of the special board of engineers appointed by the commission at the suggestion of Engineer Mulholland of the Bureau of Water Works and the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the total available water supply of the city from the Los Angeles River, Owens River and the Mono Basin, and this confirmed the reports of Chief Engineer Mulholland by inference, showed that Los Angeles must turn to the Colorado River for its future water supply.

Maj.-Gen. Lansing H. Beach, U.S.A. From Mrs. "Billy" Sunday to Cecil B. De Mille comes a cordial letter of thanks for a special July Fourth showing of "The Ten Commandments" at the famous Billy Sunday summer settlement at Winona Lake, Ill.

As a personal favor to Billy Sunday, who has long been a friend, Mr. De Mille sent an operator, full orchestra and a print of his film to Winona Lake, where 10,000 saw it in a huge tabernacle. Proceeds of the showing went to further endowment of Billy Sunday's internationally famous Bible Class for men.

In her letter Mrs. Sunday says, "Please accept our gratitude. I am sure the picture was never showed to a more appreciative audience." Cecil B. De Mille is now titling his latest Paramount picture, "Part of Clay," as Jeanie Macpherson prepares the screen play for his next production, "The Golden Bed."

"Broken Barriers" to OPEN AT LOEW'S TODAY

"Broken Barriers." Reginald Barker's new special production for Metro-Goldwyn release, opens at Loew's State Theater today, with a cast of ten featured players.

Beverly Hayne had an opportunity this week to emulate the chariot drivers of old—and after her experience, is almost ready to concede that driving an automobile on Los Angeles streets is safer than guiding a team of runaway horses.

In "The Tenth Woman" Miss Hayne plays the role of an independent and strong-willed woman, who lives on and manages her own vast western ranch. In the scene shot yesterday Miss Hayne is driving a team of horses hitched to an old-fashioned farm wagon, when the animals became frightened at some moving object in the road, and bolted. Miss Hayne, in telling of it says, "and they did bolt. I was hanging on for dear life and at the completion of the scene when Mr. Flood, my director, complimented me on the realism of my work I couldn't help but laugh. It was all very real to me, so real that I was a little panicky when they lifted me off the wagon—and I was glad that the three cameras on the first shot were sufficient for production purposes."

But Director Flood maintains that Miss Hayne displayed remarkable pluck and skill in guiding the plunging animals—even after she realized the danger.

PROHIBIT TRENUOUS LIFE

No boxing, fencing, automobile racing, airplaning or other sports likely to bring about death or disfigurement, will be permitted here by Gordon while he is engaged in his new picture.

Gordon's contract is not the only one of its kind, but because of the actor's constant indulgence in sports during his "at home" hours, the studio thought it wise to police him to him the portion of the contract barring him from dangerous sports.

TIPS TO THE PLAYGOERS

"Monsieur Beaucaire"—(Million Dollars): A notable production in which Rudolph Valentino returns to the screen.

"Sea Hawk"—(Criterion): The kind of adventure story you are sure to like.

"Nervous Wreck"—(Majestic):

Next Tuesday

Marilyn Miller, former star of "Bally," and wife of Jack Pickford, will leave Los Angeles Tuesday for New York, where she will report to Charles Dillingham for rehearsals for a new production of "Peter Pan."

Miss Miller is under a two-year contract to play Peter in the Dillingham stage production, which will open this fall. The contract was signed last spring. Following a conference between the actress and Mr. Dillingham and the star, Miss Miller came to Los Angeles, where she has been training daily under Theodore Kosloff for the dance numbers in the production.

Miss Miller is to remain until Tuesday for an observance of the birthday anniversary of Jack Pickford on Monday. The observance will probably be at the home of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, and will be a quiet one, attended only by the immediate family.

RELIGIOUS DRAMA
IN IDEAL SETTING
The Pilgrimage Play, depicting the life of Jesus of Nazareth, continues its season run in the picturesque and ideal setting in the canyon at Cahueanga and Highland avenues.
With every part in the biblical drama well cast and masterfully portrayed, this play offers great healing truths of limitless power. Underlying the artistic dramatic performance is an idea of light has brought the entire group of actors into an infinite ensemble of divine effort, giving the message of supreme value above any personal consideration or outstanding single feature.
Tenderness and superior love dominate the interpretation of Henry Herbert's role of the Christ. His reading of the lines brings a clear discernment to the part and succeeds in sending the supreme

TO LET—(Orpheum): Richard Bennett doing a nonsensical role that is also appealing.
"Toss of the D'Urbervilles"—(Loew's): Blanche Sweet triumphs in her best role to date. An attempt to convey a very serious drama through the medium of the screen.
